

1. Intro:

- Serving in Belize for over 10 years.
- Journey began as a youth, when I first fell in love with this beautiful country during several short-term mission trips.
- I went on to pursue training at Bible College and officially moved to Belize in 2014 to serve full-time on the mission field.

2. Facts about Belize

3. Before Yasha

- Initially moving to Belize, I served within a local church training and equipping children and youth leaders while also helping develop National children and youth camps.

4. Need for Yasha

- It was there I saw the need for a transitional home within the community—a home that provides young ladies who are in or aging out of government care a safe place to grow, develop, and be empowered to make a difference in their communities.
- Story about Pastor Scott confirming what the Lord had been speaking to me

5. Why we exist: Yasha Promo

6. Exciting season of transition

- For the past 2 years, Yasha has grown to a place of sustainability
- and structure, where I am no longer involved in the day-to-day running of things. My intent has always been to train and equip a Belizean core team who can carry the mission and vision of Yasha Home beyond myself, so that it can continue to be a place of refuge and healing for the vulnerable in generations to come.
- I can confidently say, we are at that place! There is a solid Belizean staff, support and accountability from our covering denomination in Belize and a firm structure in place for the overall runnings of the home.

7. New role as NextGen Coordinator for the Caribbean

- I will be coming alongside children and youth and leaders from within the Caribbean to help resource, equip, and dream together on how to reach this upcoming generation strategically
- I will still live in Belize– I am still very committed and involved in the ministry taking place in the local church, and transitioning out of Director at Yasha Home, allows me to step into supporting the Belize Church even more, while also traveling throughout the Caribbean
